

Star-Spangled Fanatics

By Cameron Tobin

Men and women clad in red baseball caps listen with bated breath, mislead by a spray-tanned president with claims of fraud, promises to improve their lives, and make America great again.

Though they listen to their Great Leader's words they already know what to do. Their country, Their culture, Their lives
are all at stake.
Thus, they defend Their Democracy.

As they siege Their Capital, climbing on each other like crazed apes
just to take selfies while the real Agents of God clad in tactical armor and wielding holy zip-cuffs to take the Demons hostage and save Their Democracy from the evils that be.

So, while the union burns, Does that Star-Spangled Banner yet wave?
O'er the Godless lands
And the home of the cult?